

PARENT TRAINING WORKSHOP

ADDRESSING FEEDING PROBLEMS IN CHILDREN

Join CDC's Head of Speech and Language Pathology, Oksana Kamenetskaya, as she provides practical tips to aid parents and professionals* in addressing feeding problems including:

- Brief overview of typical development of feeding skills including food-related milestones
- Define the nature of feeding difficulties in children with various developmental disabilities
- The difference between a picky eater and a problem feeder
- Describe important components of assessing and treating feeding disorders in children
- Review different types of feeding disorders and their origins

Date: Wed, Jan. 24, 2018

Time: 8:30-10:00 am
(including Q&A)

Venue: CDC

Registration price (non-refundable):

QAR 200 per person
(12% discount for CDC clients)

Call: +974 4414-7283

Email: reception@cdcenterqatar.com

Website: www.cdcenterqatar.com

Presenter: Oksana Kamenetskaya, M.A. CCC-SLP/TSSLD

Head of Speech & Language Pathology

Oksana is an American Speech and Hearing Association (ASHA) certified, New York State-licensed, PROMPT-trained, bilingual Speech and Language Pathologist. She holds a New York State Teacher for Students with Speech and Language Disabilities certification (TSSL-D). Oksana graduated from St. John's University with a Magna Cum Laude degree in Speech Language Pathology and Communication.

While providing intervention, Oksana implements and combines innovative and time-proven treatment techniques and learning approaches such as: PROMPT, principles of ABA therapy, Sensory Integration, TEACCH method, PECS, DIR Floortime and Hanen Program. Besides extensive expertise in communication and cognitive disorders, Oksana is trained and experienced in treating various feeding/swallowing disorders.

Nursery managers and teachers can receive a 30-minute Feeding Red Flag presentation as part of their paid registration*

Email: hashim@cdcenterqatar.com for more information!